

IT Governance and Architecture

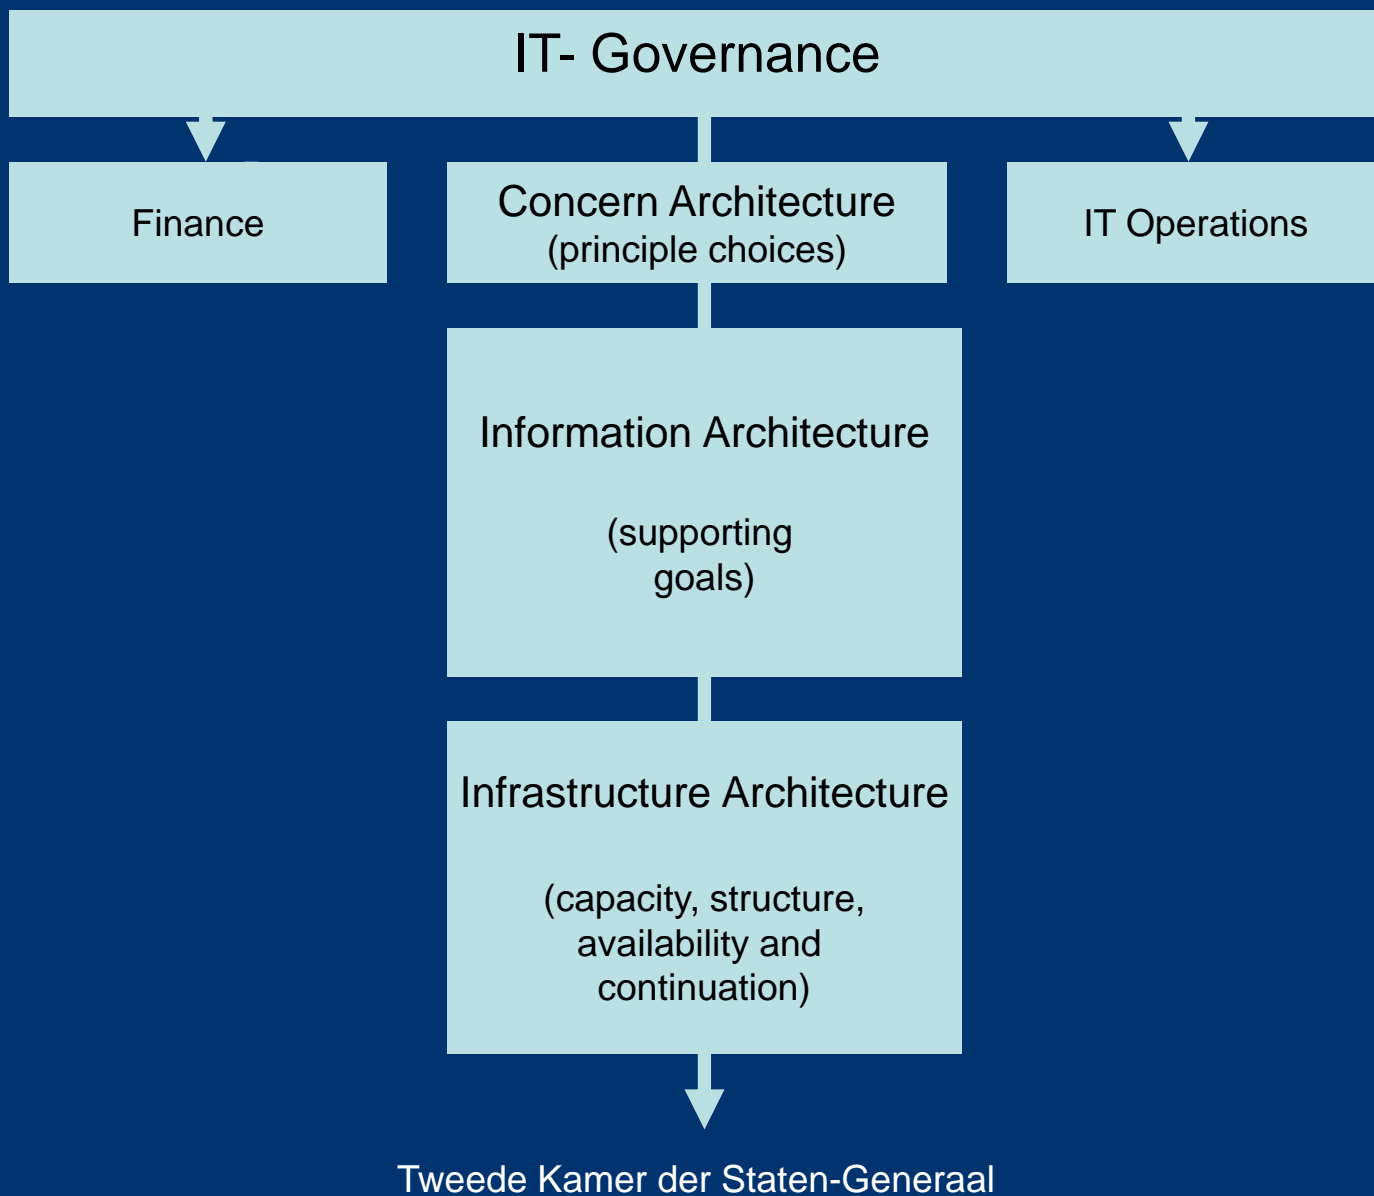

Seperation ICT and information management

Office of Information Management and Projects

Goal of IT Governance

To clarify how the organization wants, and is able, to realize its goals.

Tweede Kamer der Staten-Generaal

Concern Architecture

The connection between the choices which have been made to support the business processes.

Information Architecture

The information systems, data and applications are geared to the business processes.

Infrastructure Architecture

Infrastructural components of the ICT network.

Organization of ICT

- The CIO of the House of Representatives is managing director of Information Management
- The CIO Office is the Information Management and Projects department
- The ICT department is the system administrator

Office of Information Management and Projects

- Innovation, policies and implementation
- Architectures
- Project management
- Information security

Innovation, policies and implementation

- Advisory group
- IT management
 1. Functional management
 2. Application management
 3. Technical management

Architecture

- Monitoring cohesion in architectures
- Responsible for Information Architecture
- Evaluates the projects businesscases.
- Statutes projects for compatibility with architectures

Project management

- Financial administrator
- Monitoring the connection between projects
- Supervising the implementation and realization of projects
- Warranting the continuity of digital development
- Tested by the House of Representatives' principles of architecture
- Office of Information Management and Projects acts as a bridge between projects and ICT

Information security

From policy to tactical and executive level

Future

- IT governance approval
- IT governance implementation
- Annual architectures review